Project Summary

This collaboration between the judiciaries of India and the United States is focused on designing a judicial education workshop on cybercrime. Phase One, a 10-session virtual program, offered an overview of cyber-enabled crime, including discussions of cyber-technologies, the investigation process, and related legal and procedural issues. During this workshop, we will discuss challenges judges face when presiding over criminal cases involving cybercrime and introduce participants (the "Working Group") to curriculum development and teaching strategies. Over the next six months, working group members will develop workshop content, refine their teaching skills, and prepare to deliver two programs for district court judges at the National Judicial Academy in Bhopal.

10:15AM Program Overview

This two-day program has four components: (i) a review of law and procedure; (ii) an introduction to adult education and interactive teaching methods; (iii) time to draft an agenda for the Bhopal workshops; and (iv) the assignment curriculum development responsibilities to working group members.

10:30AM What is Cybercrime? (Group Quiz)

Cybercrime is any illegal activity using a computer as a weapon or target. This encompasses a broad range of conduct, including crimes directed at individuals (phishing and doxing, for example) and those attacking businesses and institutions (including ransomware and denial of service attacks). The vocabulary of cybercrime is rich: phishing, crypto-jacking, hacking, worms, virus, trojan horse, ransomware, doxing, identity theft. Criminal actors include individuals, organized crime, human traffickers, and nation states.

During this session, we will do a 'group quiz' exploring different types of cybercrime and the legal issues they raise during litigation.

Judge Fogel

11:00 AM Cybercrime: Review of Law and Procedure

This session provides an opportunity to review some of the topics covered during the Phase One workshop. Using the hypothetical fact pattern, we will discuss:

- The path of a cyber-investigation
- Evidentiary issues that arise in cyber-prosecutions
- Electronic evidence
- International cooperation in transnational cybercrime cases
- Relevant international instruments

Judge Fogel

12:15 PM Lunch Break

1:30PM Think-Pair-Share Activity: Adjudicating Cyber-enabled Criminal Cases

Working in pairs of two, participants will discuss the legal, evidentiary, procedural, and technical areas that Indian judges must be familiar with when presiding over criminal trials involving cybercrime.

Each pair will identify 3-4 potential workshop topics and record their list on the distributed paper.

Mira Gur-Arie

2:00 PM Report Back

1. Each pair will report back their list of topics.

2. The group will collectively nominate the top 10 - 12 topics to prepare for tomorrow morning's session.

Cristobal Diaz

2:45 Tea Break

3:15PM Overview: What is Adult Education?

Judges are task oriented, self-driven, and very busy. Judicial education should provide judges the opportunity to gain mastery of essential knowledge, skills, and values. During this session, we will review the principles of adult education, discuss the meaning of judicial

"competencies," and offer examples of general competencies for first instance judges.

Judge Fogel

4:00PM Scenario Activity: Case Management and Pretrial Conferences
Using a hypothetical scenario, the group will work through the judge's role in active case management.

Judge Haywood Gilliam, U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California

Wednesday, November 30, 2022

NOTE: PLEASE CHECK OUT OF THE HOTEL IN THE MORNING

9:00AM Cryptocurrency: What Judges Need to Know
Cryptocurrency has become increasingly relevant to the world economy and also the world of cybercrime. Judge Faruqui is a former prosecutor with expertise in cryptocurrency and financial crimes. He will discuss the different ways cryptocurrency may arise in cybercrime cases.

Magistrate Judge Zia M. Faruqui, U.S. District Court, District of Columbia

10:00AM Order the Concepts: Small Group Activity
Participants will review the 8 - 10 topics identified during yesterday's Pair and Share activity.

Divide into 2 groups of four judges:

- Discuss the topics. Should any other topics be added to the list? Should any be eliminated?
- Each group will prioritize its topics (written on large cards) and tape the cards to the wall, in order of importance
- After 25 minutes, we will look at results of two groups and discuss.
- Can a consensus be reached for the "Top 8" topics?

Mira Gur-Arie

11:00AM Tea Break

11:15AM Competencies for Adjudicating Cybercrime Cases: Brainstorm
What knowledge, skills, and attributes do judges need when presiding over cybercrimes cases?

Judge Fogel

11:45AM Lunch

12:45PM Learning Objectives: Return to Groups

Strong curriculum design has an internal structure based on learning objectives. These objectives reflect the demonstrable skills, knowledge, and values participants will acquire during a workshop. Learning objectives also facilitate the selection and organization of course content and instructional strategies.

- Group One will draft learning objectives for one of its 4 topics.
- Group Two will draft learning objectives for one of its 4 topics.

After 25 minutes, each group will report back.

Mira Gur-Arie

1:45PM The "What" and "Why" of Learning Activities: Jigsaw Activity

Learning activities, like those incorporated into this workshop, facilitate active participation to enhance learning and provide an opportunity to apply knowledge and practice skills. In this session, we will explore examples of learning activities, offer suggestions for design and sequencing, and practice drafting exercises.

Groups One and Two have 30 minutes to:

- Select one workshop topic
- Identify the learning objectives
- Choose a learning activity to reinforce one objective
- Prepare to present to the large group:
    - The activity and learning objectives
    - Instructions, including time needed
    - Materials (flip charts, laptop, small tables, online tools)
    - Delivery of a segment of the activity

Each group will have 15 minutes to present its activity and participants will offer feedback

Cris Diaz

2:45PM Tea Break

3:00PM Curriculum Design and Planning

The process of curriculum development includes many stages: assessing the learning needs of the target audience, developing educational objectives, designing activities to teach and reinforce the information being delivered, and planning program implementation. In this session we will review the design process, select and assign workshop topics, and begin to formulate an outline of the program.

Mira Gur-Arie

3:30PM The Action Plan

In this final session, we will develop an "Action Plan" for future discussion and implementation.

INDIA – UNITED STATES JUDICIAL EXCHANGE

Trafficking in Persons

Phase Two

Curriculum Design and Faculty Development

Federal Judicial Center

Washington, DC

December 12 - 13, 2022

Project Summary

This collaboration between the judiciaries of India and the United States is focused on designing a judicial education workshop on trafficking in persons. Phase One, a 10-session virtual program, offered an overview of human trafficking-related issues including the investigation process, international standards, trauma-informed judging, and procedural issues. During this workshop, Phase Two, we will discuss challenges judges face when presiding over trafficking cases and introduce participants (the "Working Group") to curriculum development and teaching strategies. Over the next six months, working group members will develop workshop content, refine their teaching skills, and prepare to deliver two programs for district/sessions court judges at the National Judicial Academy (NJA) in Bhopal.

This project is facilitated by the CEELI Institute in partnership with the U.S. Federal Judicial Center (FJC), and the NJA. It is generously supported by the United States Department of State's Bureau of International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs (INL).

Monday, December 12, 2022

10:00 AM Program Overview

This two-day program has four components: (i) a review of law and procedure; (ii) an introduction to adult education and interactive teaching methods; (iii) time to draft an agenda for the Bhopal workshops; and (iv) the assignment of curriculum development responsibilities to working group members.

Mira Gur-Arie
Director, International Office
Federal Judicial Center

10:15 AM Human Trafficking: Legal Issues and Human Context

- Evidentiary issues
- Cyber-enabled trafficking in persons
- International cooperation in human trafficking cases
- International standards and instruments

1:00 PM Think-Pair-Share: Adjudicating Trafficking Cases

Working in pairs of two, participants will discuss the legal, evidentiary, procedural, and technical areas that Indian judges must be familiar with when presiding over criminal trials involving human trafficking.

Each pair will identify 3-4 potential workshop topics and record their list on the distributed paper.

Claire Smearman
Senior Judicial Education Attorney
Federal Judicial Center

Stephanie Hemmert
Senior Judicial Education Attorney
Federal Judicial Center

1:30 PM Report Back

1. Each pair will report back their list of topics.

2. The group will collectively nominate the top 10 - 12 topics to prepare for tomorrow morning's session.

2:15 PM Overview: What is Adult Education?

Judges are task oriented, self-driven, and very busy. Judicial education should provide judges the opportunity to gain mastery of essential knowledge, skills, and values. During this session, we will review the principles of adult education, discuss the meaning of judicial "competencies," and offer examples of general competencies for first instance judges.

Stephanie Hemmert
Claire Smearman

3:00 PM Tea Break

3:15 PM Competencies for Adjudicating Human Trafficking Cases: Brainstorm

What knowledge, skills, and attributes do judges need when presiding over trafficking cases?

Judge Burgess

4:00 PM Day 1 Concludes

Tuesday, December 13, 2022

9:30 AM Case Management

Using a hypothetical scenario, the group will work through the judge's role in active case management.

Judge Burgess

10:15 AM Trauma-Informed Judging

Cases involving trafficking in persons present judges (and courts) with a complex array of challenges. The trauma experienced by victims, witnesses, and trafficked persons charged with crimes has an impact on the investigative process and court testimony. Judges, court staff, and attorneys must become knowledgeable about the ramifications of human trafficking and develop strategies to protect the rights and safety of trafficking victims. We will discuss some of the practices that can be utilized to effectuate trauma-informed judging.

Barbara Martinez

11:15 AM Order the Concepts: Small Group Activity

Participants will review the 8 - 10 topics identified during yesterday's Pair and Share activity.

Divide into 2 groups of four judges:

- Discuss the topics. Should any other topics be added to the list? Should any be eliminated?
- Each group will prioritize its topics (written on large cards) and tape the cards to the wall, in order of importance.
- After 25 minutes, we will look at results of two groups and discuss.
- Can a consensus be reached for the "Top 8" topics?

Mira Gur-Arie

12:15 PM Lunch

1:15 PM Learning Objectives: Return to Groups

Strong curriculum design has an internal structure based on learning objectives. These objectives reflect the demonstrable skills, knowledge, and values participants will acquire during a workshop. Learning objectives also facilitate the selection and organization of course content and instructional strategies.

- Group One will draft learning objectives for two of its 4 topics.
- Group Two will draft learning objectives for two of its 4 topics.

After 25 minutes, each group will report back.

Stephanie Hemmert

2:15 PM The "What" and "Why" of Learning Activities: Jigsaw Activity

Learning activities, like those incorporated into this workshop, facilitate active participation to enhance learning and provide an opportunity to apply knowledge and practice skills. In this session, we will explore examples of learning activities, offer suggestions for design and sequencing, and practice drafting exercises.

Groups One and Two have 30 minutes to:

- Select one workshop topic
- Identify the learning objectives
- Choose a learning activity to reinforce one objective
- Prepare to present to the large group:
  - The activity and learning objectives
  - Instructions, including time needed
  - Materials (flip charts, laptop, small tables, online tools)
  - Delivery of a segment of the activity

Each group will have 15 minutes to present its activity and participants will offer feedback

Claire Smearman

3:15 PM Tea Break

3:30 PM Curriculum Design and Planning

The process of curriculum development includes many stages: assessing the learning needs of the target audience, developing educational objectives, designing activities to teach and reinforce the information being delivered, and planning program implementation. In this session we will review the design process, select and assign workshop topics, and begin to formulate an outline of the program.

Mira Gur-Arie

4:00 PM The Action Plan

In this final session, we will develop an "Action Plan" for future discussion and implementation.

Judge Burgess

4:30 PM Closing Session

12:15 p.m. Content Review: Cybercrime Fact Pattern – Effective Management and Resolution of Cybercrime Issues

Cybercrime evidence is often in the form of electronic information, which can be stored locally on personal devices, remotely on a server, or virtually on the Cloud. Further, such electronic information is often in the possession, custody or control of cyber criminals, third-party providers or victims, and the amount of electronic evidence is often voluminous. During this session, we will use a fact pattern to discuss the various procedural and substantive issues related to the identification, preservation, and collection of such electronic evidence.

Judge Porcelli

1:15 p.m. Lunch

2:15 p.m. Presentation Skills I: Elements of an Effective Presentation

In this session, we will discuss how to use learning objectives to guide a presentation, how to "chunk" information, strategies for making a presentation interactive, and best practices for using demonstrative aides.

Claire Smearman

2:45 p.m. Presentation Skills II: How to Approach a Slide Deck

PowerPoint presentations help instructors attract and maintain participant engagement through brevity, media, and aesthetics. Effective demonstrative aides, such as visuals (e.g., graphics, images, and video) and interactive elements (e.g., polls) should be incorporated strategically into a slide deck for a successful presentation. This session will provide a basic introduction to the logic behind PowerPoint construction and offer participants an opportunity to draft a basic slide master and (at least) two slides.

Celine Calpo, Program Specialist, Federal Judicial Center
Maria Ladron de Guevara, Program Officer, CEELI Institute

3:30 p.m. Break

3:45 p.m. Presentations Skills III: Preparation

Working in 4 groups of 2, each team will collaborate and prepare an 8-minute presentation of any segment of one of the workshop topics. Each team should develop an outline guided by their topic's learning objectives, prepare 2 – 3 Power Point slides or use another visual aide, and incorporate a strategy for engaging students. Each team will deliver its presentation to the full group tomorrow morning.

Claire Smearman

4:15 p.m. Facilitating Group Discussions

Classroom discussion is an important tool for engaging learners and reinforcing content. Facilitating discussion can be challenging. The facilitator must provide structure to the discussion, encourage participation, keep the session on topic without dominating the discussion, challenge learners to think critically, model listening skills and respect, manage challenging exchanges, and cover the session material. Tools used by facilitators include: open-ended questions, follow-up questions, diffusing disruptive comments, and re-directing comments.

Judge Porcelli
Claire Smearman

4:30 p.m. Activity: Practice with Facilitation Skills I

4 volunteers will introduce a discussion topic to their colleagues and lead a 7-minute discussion. Those playing the role of participant will be given a note with instructions.

Judge Porcelli
Claire Smearman

5:15 p.m. Day Concludes

Sunday, January 22, 2023

- Was the visual aide used effectively?

Judge Porcelli
Claire Smearman

We will review the components of learning activities and discuss:

- Selecting the 'right' activity
- Drafting a hypothetical scenario
- Allocating time
- Writing clear instructions
- Providing Feedback
- Integrating "quick" learning activities such as a poll or quiz

Judge Porcelli
Claire Smearman

11:30 a.m. Break

11:45 a.m. Activity: Practice with Learning Activities – Continued

Working in 2 groups of 4, each participant will have 10 minutes to present and facilitate the learning activity they included in their Session Planning Outline.

After each group member has had the opportunity to "pilot" their learning activity, we will reassemble as a large group to discuss strategies: what worked, what didn't work, what changes are needed.

Judge Porcelli
Claire Smearman

1:00 p.m. Lunch

2:00 p.m. Activity: Program Materials

Faculty will not be able to cover all "important" material in a workshop session. Some information can be transferred through written materials prepared specifically for the program or outside reading. Learning will be facilitated through careful preparation of session outlines and conservative selection of additional readings.

Working in teams of 2, participants will discuss and make a list of the materials needed for their sessions, including visual aids, PowerPoints, substantive outlines, and other readings.

Judge Porcelli
Claire Smearman

3:00 p.m. Activity: Time Management – Finalizing the Session Plan

Planning a workshop session requires making difficult choices about how to allocate time and select material. There is never enough time to cover everything, and an overabundance of substantive information will overload workshop participants.

Using learning objectives as a guide, the instructor must identify what substance to cover through a short presentation, what is best left for reading assignments, what to develop into a substantive outline to distribute, what content to introduce through learning activities, and what supplemental readings to prepare.

Working individually and using the provided template, each participant will draft and further refine their session outline, including a breakdown of each 10-minute increment, learning activities, and supplemental materials, and begin to draft language instructor guide/script for session.

Judge Porcelli
Claire Smearman

3:45 p.m. Break

4:00 p.m. Final Session Plan Presentations

Each participant will have 3 – 5 minutes to present their session plan and receive feedback from the group.

Judge Porcelli
Claire Smearman

4:45 p.m. Looking Ahead: To Do Lists

We will discuss the workshops scheduled for later this year and address remaining questions and suggested changes. Each participant will create and share his "To Do" list.

Claire Smearman

5:00 p.m. Wrap-Up and Adjourn

1:00 p.m. Lunch

2:00 p.m. Activity: Program Materials

Faculty will not be able to cover all "important" material in a workshop session. Some information can be transferred through written materials prepared specifically for the program or outside reading. Learning will be facilitated through careful preparation of session outlines and conservative selection of additional readings.

Working in 2 groups, participants will discuss and make a list of the materials needed for their sessions, including visual aids, PowerPoints, substantive outlines, and other readings.

2:45 p.m. Time Management – Finalizing the Session Plan

Planning a workshop session requires making difficult choices about how to allocate time and select material. There is never enough time to cover everything, and an overabundance of substantive information will overload workshop participants.

Using learning objectives as a guide, the instructor must identify what substance to cover through a short presentation, what is best left for reading assignments, what to develop into a substantive outline to distribute, what content to introduce through learning activities, and what supplemental readings to prepare.

3:00 p.m. Session Plan Modifications

Working individually and using the provided template, each participant will draft and further refine their session outline, including a breakdown of the time for each segment, learning activities, and supplemental materials.

Each participant will have 30 minutes to revise their workshop session plans based on feedback, teaching methods, and learning activities modeled through this workshop.

3:30 p.m. Break

3:45 p.m. Session Plan Feedback

The group will convene and share significant changes to their session plans.

2:15 p.m. Facilitating Group Discussions

Classroom discussion is an important tool for engaging learners and reinforcing content. Facilitating discussion can be challenging. The facilitator provides structure to the discussion, helps foster an environment of psychological safety, respectfully encourages participation by all in a variety of ways, keeps the session on topic without dominating the discussion, challenges participants to think critically, models listening skills and respect, and manages challenging exchanges. Tools used by facilitators include open-ended questions, follow-up questions, diffusing disruptive comments, and re-directing comments.

Hon. Timothy Burgess
Stephanie Hemmert

In this session, we will discuss how to use learning objectives to guide a presentation, how to "chunk" information, strategies for engaging participants, and best practices for using demonstrative aides.

Stephanie Hemmert

4:15 p.m. Presentation Skills II: How to Approach a Slide Deck (remote presentation)

PowerPoint presentations help instructors attract and maintain participant engagement through brevity, media, and aesthetics. Effective demonstrative aides, such as visuals (e.g., graphics, images, and video) and interactive elements (e.g., quizzes) should be incorporated strategically into a slide deck for a successful presentation. This session will provide a basic introduction to the logic behind PowerPoint construction and offer participants an opportunity to draft a basic slide master and (at least) two slides.

Celine Calpo, Program Specialist, Federal Judicial Center

4:45 p.m. Presentations Skills III: Preparation for Team-Teaching

Working in pairs, each team will collaborate and prepare an eight-minute presentation of any segment of one of the workshop topics. Each team should develop an outline guided by a learning objective, prepare two or three PowerPoint slides or use another type of visual aide (e.g. Prezi, flip chart), and incorporate a strategy for engaging students. Each team will deliver its presentation to the full group tomorrow morning and describe their experience working as a team.

(Continued from 11:30 a.m.) Each participant will have 10 minutes to present and facilitate the learning activity they included in their Session Planning Outline. After each presentation, we will discuss strategies: what worked well, what might be improved, and suggestions for possible changes.

Stephanie Hemmert

2:45 p.m. Time Management – Finalizing the Session Plan

Planning a workshop session requires making difficult choices about how to allocate time and select material. There is never enough time to cover everything, and an overabundance of substantive information will overload workshop participants.

Using learning objectives as a guide, the instructor must identify what substance is most critical, how to best convey the content, what may be pulled out for prior readings, what supplemental content may be best as optional resources for participants, what learning activities to use, and what content could be introduced if there is additional time.

Stephanie Hemmert

3:00 p.m. Session Plan Modifications

Working individually and using the provided template, each participant will have time to further refine their session plan based on feedback, teaching methods, and learning activities modeled throughout this workshop.

Jim Chance, Senior Judicial Education Attorney, Federal Judicial Center

10:00 a.m. Activity: Why and What?

The process of preparing for a workshop involves multiple phases, much time, and a lot of hard work. It is easy to lose sight of the original educational objectives. During this session, we will return to basics, re-focus, and review. Why is it important for judges to be knowledgeable about the Hague Memorandum and competent with the skills needed to adjudicate terrorism cases? What are the essential knowledge, skills, and qualities judges need to adjudicate these cases effectively? Did we forget anything?

Hon. Anthony Porcelli, Magistrate Judge, U.S. Court for the Middle District of Florida Jim Chance

10:45 a.m. Break

11:00 a.m. Presentation Skills: A Review

Great teachers, like great judges, are not born. They are made. One of the most significant obstacles to effective teaching is confidence. During this session we will discuss 5 tips for preparing and delivering effective presentations.

Jim Chance

11:30 a.m. Re-Group: Instructions for Afternoon Session: Time to Teach

Each participant will have 30 minutes to present a segment of their workshop session. This is an opportunity to practice the skills that have been refined during ToT I and II. Participants should select portions of their workshop sessions that they feel they could use the most feedback on e.g., opening statement, interactive components, challenging or complex portions of the material, etc. Each presentation will be followed by 10 minutes of feedback from colleagues. This segment should include facilitating a portion of one learning activity.

During the pre-lunch and post-lunch sessions, participants will prepare their presentations and have the opportunity to ask questions.

During this session, participants will volunteer sharing one or two of their PPT slides. Colleagues and faculty will provide feedback and suggest edits. If additional technical assistance is needed, Celine Calpo (ccalpo@fjc.gov) will follow up and schedule a call or email exchange.

Cristobal Diaz

2:30 p.m. Activity: Program Materials

Faculty will not be able to cover all "important" material in a workshop session. Some information can be transferred through written materials prepared specifically for the program or outside reading. Learning will be facilitated through careful preparation of session outlines and conservative selection of additional readings. It is very helpful for faculty to develop tailored handouts such as 'quick guides' or checklists that distill the essential points of their session.

Working in 2 groups, participants will discuss and list the materials needed for their sessions, including visual aids, slide decks, substantive outlines, checklists/guides, and other readings.

Judge Porcelli

4:00 p.m. Final Modifications, Preparation, Planning

We will discuss the changes participants plan to make to their sessions. Each participant will create a "To Do" list of tasks (with self-determined deadlines) to structure their preparation for the April 29 – 30 Pilot Workshop. They will also finalize session titles and descriptions.

9:30 a.m. Opening Remarks

Marek Svoboda, Director of Programs, CEELI Institute
Hon. A.P. Sahi, Director, National Judicial Academy of India

9:45 a.m. Program Overview

Maria Ladrón de Guevara, Program Manager, CEELI Institute
Mira Gur-Arie, Director, International Office, Federal Judicial Center

10:00 a.m. — Activity: What, Why, and How?

The process of preparing for a workshop involves multiple phases and it is easy to lose sight of the workshop's substantive goals. During this session, we will return to basics and revisit the learning objectives for each workshop session. What are the essential knowledge, skills, and qualities judges need to preside over human trafficking cases?

Each participant will have 15 minutes to restate their session's learning objectives and explain how they will be addressed and get feedback from the group. Participants will then have 30 minutes to adjust their presentations as needed. This is an important opportunity to reflect upon the substantive goals for the entire program.

Hon. Timothy Burgess, District Judge, U.S. District Court for the District of Alaska

Great teachers, like great judges, are not born. They are made. One of the most significant obstacles to effective teaching is confidence. During this session we will discuss 5 tips for preparing and delivering effective presentations.

Cristobal Diaz, Assistant Director, International Programs, Bolch Judicial Institute, Duke Law School

2:00 p.m. — Instructions for Afternoon Session: Time to Teach

Each participant will have 45 minutes to present a segment of their workshop session, followed by 15 minutes of feedback from colleagues.

1. Please select a segment you think would benefit from practice and feedback e.g., opening statement, interactive components, challenging or complex portions of the material.

2. This segment should include practice delivering directions for the learning activity.

Participants will have 30 minutes to prepare.

9:45 a.m.	Take Another Look: Revising PowerPoint Presentations The use of tools such as PowerPoint and Mentimeter can help you reach learning objectives and facilitate learning activities but can also detract from effective content delivery if used improperly. During this session, we will review the best ways to use certain technology to enhance the learning experience of your audience. Celine Calpo, Program Specialist, Federal Judicial Center

10:30 a.m. — Activity: Program Materials

Faculty will not be able to address all of the issues relevant to their topic in their workshop session. Additional information can be transferred through supplemental readings and handouts prepared specifically for the program such as topic outlines and checklists.

We will spend 15 minutes discussing the types of handouts that can be used to supplement your workshop session. You will then have 30 minutes to develop either a checklist or topic outline for your session. We will spend the remaining 30 minutes of the session reviewing these draft handouts.

12:00 p.m. — Learning Activities: Managing Logistics

The process of developing a learning activity can be all consuming. Sometimes we forget to think through the mechanics of executing the activity. For example, if you want to have a small group activity, have you decided how to divide the larger group? Is there sufficient time to move groups into different rooms? If you want to use Mentimeter, did you ask participants to bring their cell phones? Did you leave sufficient time to provide instructions on how to access Mentimeter?

We will briefly discuss these logistics and brainstorm both problems and possible solutions.

Cristobal Diaz

12:15 p.m. — Final Modifications, Preparation, Planning

We will discuss modifications participants plan to make to their sessions such as revising learning objectives, streamlining content, or creating a new fact pattern. Each participant will create a "To Do" list of tasks (with group-determined deadlines) to structure their preparation for the pilot workshop. One working group member will assume responsibility for checking in with colleagues and facilitating coordination of topic content.

We will also spend time developing a strategy for managing the logistics of learning activities during the workshop.

Mira Gur-Arie

1:15 p.m. — Lunch

2:15 p.m. — Individual Consultations

Faculty will meet individually with each working group member to discuss their workshop session including objectives, content, PPTs, and learning activities to ensure that each team member is confident in and comfortable with their preparation.

Consultations will be done in rotations. Half the group will meet with faculty advisors during hour one while the other half will work with Celine on PPT revisions. The groups will swap for hour two.

4:45 p.m. Closing Remarks

5:00 p.m. Program Day Concludes

9:30 a.m. Office Hours

Faculty will be available this morning to help fine-tune presentations, handouts, and any other aspects of individual or collective curriculum design elements. This is your last opportunity to meet with faculty in-person before the implementation of the pilot workshop so use this time wisely!
